CLANS GATHERING

At Bellaire for the Sixteenth Ohio Convention To-Day.

GILL WILL BE RENOMINATED

For Congress by Acclamation — The Steubenville Statesman and Friends Arrived Last Evening — The Contest for Delegate to the Philadelphia Convention Between Heinlein and Bradfield Waxing Warm.

The delegates and prominent Republicans from all parts of the Sixteenth congressional district began to gather at Bellaire yesterday evening for the convention that will be held in the new opera house there to-day.

The first delegation to arrive was that from Carroll county. They dropped in unawares early in the day. The delegation is composed of the following gentlemen: James McConnell, Will J. Robinson, Hon. D. O. Rutan, O. C. Scott, John Donaldson, Robert Hosterman, R. T. Blythe, J. W. Thompson, John Taber, W. L. Handley, William F. Butler, R. E. McDonald, John Williams, J. H. Love, J. J. McCoy, Edwin Stewart, Will Maple, Hon. R. G. McKean, W. H. Sutor, E. M. Adams, John P. Davis, J. B. Woods, A. A. Rutan and H. R. Kemmerer, of the Republican Standard, at Carrollton. They are all enthusiastic for Congressman Gill, and have a candidate for one of the honors to be given by the convention in the person of Hon. R. T. Blythe, who would like to be a delegate to the Philadelphia convention.

Hon. S. K. McLaughlin, of Harrison county, came in early to look the local field over, and mingled with the delegates and others from that county who came in last night. The balance will arrive this forenoon.

Thomas B. Rouse, Dr. Devore and John W. Hawkins, of the Monroe delegation, came in yesterday evening, and the others from Monroe will arrive this morning.

Hon. J. C. Heinlein came down in the evening, and was about his headquarters at the Globe Hotel, mingling with friends.

A little later, came G. E. Bradfield, of Barnesville, accompanied by Hon. C. J. Howard, P. B. Worthington, Stewart Watt, Will Hillis, Charles Little, Ed Ward and others, all of whom were booming him as one of the national delegates.

At 7 o'clock Congressman J. J. Gill, Judge Miller, Judge Walter Shotwell and Hon. John L. Means arrived from Steubenville, and are quartered at the Windsor. They were all kept busy giving attention to callers.

The Harrison county delegation arrived late last night, and quartered at the Anderson, and the Exchange was filled with Carroll and Jefferson people.

The re-nomination of Congressman Gill by acclamation is assured, every county in the district being with one another to aid in the cause of harmony. The feeling among all the delegates present last night seemed to indicate that only friends of President McKinley would be put on guard, and they wanted the kind that needed no vouching for. It is always hazardous to venture a prediction as to the outcome of any convention, but if the forerunners at Bellaire last night had anything like a correct idea of the situation the honors will be awarded to-day with a harmony and unanimity that will astonish any who may be looking for trouble. Good humor characterized every move.

Late in the evening the Carroll delegation called upon Mr. Bradfield, of Belmont, and it is said gave him assurances that cheered him in his ambition.

Hon. C. L. Weems, Chairman L. E. Emerson and others from the county seat reached Bellaire on the last train, and were mixing with the delegates generally.

It was generally conceded that Carroll county would get one of the national delegates, and that the other one would probably be given to Belmont. Further than this could not be learned.

It is likely Belmont county will be in the convention united this morning, with Hon. J. C. Heinlein as chairman.
